

Mary McHugh

Senior Vice President and Chief Delivery Officer
Xerox Corporation

Mary McHugh is chief delivery officer for Xerox Corporation. She was named to this position and a senior vice president of the corporation effective June 18, 2018.

Mary is responsible for the global delivery of Xerox products, services, consumables and supplies. This includes the worldwide strategy and operation of our manufacturing sites, customer service operations and delivery centers.

Before joining Xerox, Mary was the senior vice president of SaaS Implementation Success Management and SaaS Consulting for North America at Oracle Corporation. In this role, she was responsible for overseeing all Oracle partner-led SaaS implementations and leading a global effort within the company to establish a partner SaaS implementation quality program.

Previously, Mary was at Hewlett Packard Enterprise as the senior vice president of Global Solution Design and Delivery. In addition, she spent 28 years at IBM in roles of increasing responsibility within the Global Services organization, including engineering, marketing, sales, channel management and professional service delivery.

Mary earned a Master of Business Administration degree from Simmons College and bachelor's degree in Electrical Engineering from Manhattan College.

-XXX-