What if data and documents could manage themselves?

Information is multiplying by the day — piles of paper, desktops drowning in downloaded documents, and data that always seems to get lost in translation. Taming the daily influx of information is hard enough. Keeping it accessible, organized, and protected is harder still, especially in hybrid office environments. That’s why Xerox® Capture & Content Services are backed by our Global Capture Platform.

An advanced technology backbone does all the heavy lifting. It orchestrates the entire process so you can stay agile, responsive, and productive. How’s that for working smarter and not harder?

Business has never moved faster. However, it can be difficult to keep up when you’re dealing with large amounts of buried information. Organizations need to be able to capture, classify, catalog, and securely deliver content from any medium or source without breaking a sweat or the bank.

Say goodbye to bumps in the road and costly, time-consuming bottlenecks that prevent data from getting to where it needs to go. Our Global Capture Platform allows you to:

CAPTURE

Capturing, classifying, and cataloguing critical business information in print and digital formats, supporting content and data that’s accessible, portable, auditable, and controllable.

TRANSFORM

Transforming print- and digital-native content through machine learning and automated document classification to extract data and insight.

PROCESS

Automating and simplifying high-volume business processes critical to your organization.

MANAGE

Rationalizing and streamlining content for a unified content management environment, making information readily available across the organization with secure, role-based access to content.

DELIVER

Delivering information at the point-of-need through a simple, intuitive interface that provides collaboration across the organization and extends the same to end customers.
The backbone and brain behind it all.

With the Production Workflow Manager as its backbone, our Global Capture Platform infrastructure provides flawless user access, workflow management, workload orchestration, operations analytics, and reporting.
